Popular music ringtones for android

Most phones now have storage capacity that fits to hold all your favorite tunes. If your phone has a microSD card slot, even better! You can usually transfer music directly to the card. Here's how to copy music to your Android phone using Windows or Mac! How to copy music from Mac to Android phone using Android file transfer After downloading Android file transfer, just connect your phone to your Mac via USB. Start transferring Android files from the Finder or Dock. Open the Finder window and open the folder where the music is contained. Click your phone or SD card depending on where you want to transfer your music. If your phone doesn't have a microSD slot, you won't need the SD card option. Drag individual music files or entire folders to transfer Android files. That's all there is to it, but be careful: If you try to transfer too many files at once, Android File Transfer will probably just shit and stop the party-way through. Keep your batch transfers below 1 GB. How to transfer music from computer to Android phone wirelessly using AirDroid If you prefer to go without a cable route (which is probably a good idea if your alternative is Android File Transfer), then AirDroid is where it is. It works for both Mac and PC, so just download and set it up! Start AirDroid from the home screen or app outlet. Tap Sign in or Sign up. Enter your email address and password. Tap Sign in. Tap Enable to see real-time app notifications on your PC. Otherwise, click Later. On your Mac, go to . Alternatively, you can download the desktop client. Enter your email address and password, and then click Sign in. If prompted, click the device where you want to transfer music, and then click OK. You should then receive an AirDroid connection notification on your phone. Click the Music button in the lower-left corner of AirDroid options. A window appears. Click Upload. Click to open the Finder window. Drag and drop music files or folders as you like. You can drop as many files as you want, you simply can't choose whether your music is stored on your phone or SD card. It will be automatically stored on your phone, although if your phone has a feature, you will be able to move music to an SD card. How to transfer music from your Windows PC to your Android phone computer to make life quite easier in that you recognize your Android phone as a USB device and as long as your phone is in true USB mode, copying music is as simple as connecting, dragging, dropping, done. Connect your phone to your computer via USB. Tap a USB notification on your phone. Click the circle next to File Transfer (MTP). File Explorer starts automatically. Open the next File Explorer window from the taskbar. Find the music files you want to copy to your phone. music files to your phone and internal storage, or to SD card if you have one and release them. It's your turn! How do you copy music files to my Android phone or tablet? Let us know in the comments below! Like many of you out there, I spend my day rushing from place to place, trying to get a thousand things done at once. But sometimes there is too much stress. So I wanted to make everything better by engaging in some beloved melody and letting the music wash away all the problems. Oh, yes! Whether it's taking the subway to work, jogging in the park, or simply chilling at home, music is probably the best way to help us get in a good mood. If you're the type that needs to have music at hand all the time, then relax because android authority has you covered! Also check out some of the best 2012 apps for Android! Android offers a large number of apps dedicated to music lovers, so you can listen to your favorite tunes with just a few taps and swipes. Whether you're a neat fool who organizes music by artist, song title and genre (alphabetically, of course), or you like shuffle tunes around until you find the perfect song for now, Android really offers everything you need to get your music collection. Let's go through some of the best Android apps for music lovers. ShazamFor many Android lovers out there, Shazam is an app when it comes to musical discovery. By playing 10 or so seconds of virtually every son, he joins the cloud and finds a tune for you. If you've never tried it before, you have to do it now. You can simply elevate your Android device to music and let Shazam work its magic, even going so far as to find lyrics for you. It also allows you to share tags of your favorite music on Facebook and Twitter. If you want to go one step further, you can search for music videos from your songs on YouTube or download the latest songs from the Amazon MP3 store. Shazam will help you stay up to date on your favorite songs and artists without having to sweat. Absolutely amazing! for Android on AppBrainDigitally Imported Radio There are times when even your list of hand-picked songs just won't make the cut, and you're looking to have fresh delivery tunes delivered directly to your Android device. Well, with the digitally imported radio app, you'll be able to choose from 37 different radio channels, each dedicated to playing the hottest and newest songs of all genres you can imagine. No more mixing around the songs that are available on the device for a song you haven't heard in a long time. With digitally imported radio, you'll listen to songs you haven't heard at all! Digitally imported radio for Android on AppBrainSoundHoundHavi have you ever experienced hearing a snippet of a song, then having stuck in your head for the rest of the day without ever finding out the artist or song title? If you are something like me, you try to remember, but often can not, after the fact. A lot in the way Shazam works Soundhound too. With SoundHound, you'll never have to worry about suffering UIS (Unidentified Song Syndrome) ever again! You can enter everything related to this song into this app - a 4-second snippet, one line, or even just your own voice buzzing the tune of the song - and this great app identifies the song for you. No more searching the internet looking for that song ever again! You can identify an unlimited number of songs with SoundHound, as well as share them on Facebook or Twitter as soon as you find them. Also commenters all over this page and blogosphere claim that this one works much better than Shazam, but we'll make that decision for you. Let us know! Both are great to have, though. SoundHound for Android on AppBrainThere is a lot of people who love to be meticulous about their playlists, and if you're one of them, doubleTwist Player is a wise app to have in your arsenal! This great app not only automatically organizes your songs based on title, artist, and genre, but can also rate them by most games or by their age. Of course, you can arrange songs according to your own criteria, too. doubleTwist Player also automatically finds the album cover online. This feature is pure gold, my friends. Download it instantly if you have more than a few hundred songs, and you want to be able to organize them so that it allows you to access the tunes you crave instantly.doubleTwist Player for Android on AppBrainMixing Media PlayerMixing Media Player is the best app for those who just want to lay back and let their Android device do heavy lifting (that small device in hand is actually packing some serious horsepower). Whether you want your song lyrics identified, your cover found online, or your playlists arranged, this app will definitely do all of the above, and much more. If you've ever fallen asleep listening to music and found your device exhausted the next day, you don't have to worry anymore, because Mixing has an auto-off feature that turns off the player at a pre-set time. You can also put your device on music lock so you won't accidentally swtich tunes or turn off the app while doing those crazy dance moves that you're famous for. MixZing Media Player for Android on AppBrainSome, your artistic side just wants to get out, and with Ringtone Maker, you'll be able to get your creative juices flowing.
